DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed 1/22/2008 has been entered.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 5-14 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 9 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the panel as moveable by a piston, does not reasonably provide enablement for the panel as moveable by the drilling motor, which is the only motor found within the specification. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's admitted prior art (hereafter AAPA) in view of Martin et al. (US 2003/0213507). AAPA discloses a drill head for a drilling machine comprising: a structure comprising a shaft, a drill rod coupled to an inner driver and a drill sleeve essentially parallel to the drill rod and coupled to an outer driver, and an aperture between the drill rod and the drill sleeve which discharges a slurry in operation (instant specification, paragraphs 3-8). However, the AAPA does not disclose a protective screen panel. Martin et al. discloses a drilling head comprising a structure comprising a shaft (242), a protective screen panel coupled to the structure (246, fig 2); wherein the protective screen panel is moveable from a first position substantially exposing fluid discharge apertures when the machine is not in operation to a second position encircling a discharge aperture (paragraph 8); wherein the screen has an essentially U-shaped profile (fig 3a); wherein the screen is coupled to the structure by one or more connection elements (paragraph 10); wherein the connection elements enable adjustment of the position of the screen (paragraph 24); wherein the protective screen is moveable by a motor or a hydraulic piston (paragraph 27); wherein the panel is movable from the first position to the second position in a direction essentially parallel to a longitudinal axis of the drill rod and sleeve or sideways (paragraphs 24 and 27; in view of the adjustment possibilities presented in paragraph 27, one of ordinary skill in the art would recognize that adjustment in any direction is possible); wherein the protective screen is adjustable to direct an outflow in different directions (paragraphs 26 and 27 present adjustment possibilities which make adjustment of the outflow a matter of design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to provide the drill screen of Martin et al. on the known drilling device of the AAPA in order to protect an operator from an slurry outflow (paragraph 2).

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
